COMMENTS

THE SAGA OF ANNE OF GREEN GABLES

Words cannot express our feelings nor capture the emotions we experienced watching Anne of Green Gables and Anne of Avonlea. Kevin Sullivan certainly did an exquisite job in bringing the characters and all their emotions to the heart of every viewer. Megan Follows and Colleen Dewhurst were tremendous.

I would like to request, on behalf of my family, and possibly many families who did not see the miniseries, that you plan to air it again very soon. Unfortunately, we missed Hour 3 of Anne of Green Gables and want very much to see it.

Mrs. Virgil Hillyard
Memphis, TN

The Disney Channel will present a special encore of The Saga of Anne of Green Gables. The entire eight-hour miniseries, which includes Anne of Green Gables and Anne of Avonlea, will be shown in four parts on four consecutive nights, Sunday through Wednesday, December 27-30, at 9:00 p.m. (Eastern/Pacific time).

COLLEGE BOWL ROOTER

Thank you for bringing College Bowl back to television. I can fondly recall many a Sunday afternoon when I was growing up, with the whole family playing along with the college teams—even my grandpa and grandpa. While I've always been fond of quiz shows, College Bowl was the classiest of the lot. It's great to be able to sit down and watch it on Sundays again. I hope you continue making new shows!

Adam Snowden
St. Paul, MN

Don't miss the final game to determine the 1987 National Champion, Sunday, December 20 at 5:30 p.m.

HELD OVER TITLES

We have been subscribers of The Disney Channel for almost eight weeks. The reason for this letter is that we're having trouble finding descriptions for some of the movies listed in The Disney Channel Magazine schedule.

On each page of the listings there is a grey box with movies or specials listed, their lengths, and the days on which they are shown, but no descriptions. It would be very helpful to have a brief description of these items so that we may better plan our TV viewing schedule. We try to schedule a good variety of programs for everyone.

Mr. & Mrs. Ralph Kujawa
Toledo, OH

The programs you are referring to were fully described in the previous issue of The Disney Channel Magazine. Although they have additional air dates during this current programming period, synopses of the programs always appear during the period in which the programs debut. Because of limited space, these held-over programs are listed in subsequent issues of the magazine with only their running times and airdates. With this issue, however, we've added the heading "Held Over" to indicate that these programs were described in the previous issue. Unfortunately, that's all that space will allow.

A DISNEY CHANNEL CONVERT

I'll be honest—I was totally against getting The Disney Channel at first, but I was outvoted by the rest of the family. You see, I'm totally against the kids watching TV every spare moment they have. I want them to play outside and get some fresh air and sunshine, or read a good book on cold and rainy days. I honestly thought The Disney Channel was nothing but one long run of cartoons all day. Boy, was I wrong!

I can't begin to list all the wonderful movies and specials that we have watched together as a family. We're looking forward to many more hours of The Disney Channel.

Audry L. Smith
Lafayette, LA

CLOSED CAPTIONED PROGRAMMING

As the parent of a deaf child (age 10), I would like to thank you for expanding your closed captioned programming. It has meant so much to my daughter.

Mrs. Patricia L. Ramsay
Belpre, OH

Thank you for your kind letter.

DISNEY NIGHT TIME PRESENTS THE BEST OF HOLLYWOOD

John Wayne

Katharine Hepburn

Henry Fonda

Jeanne Crain

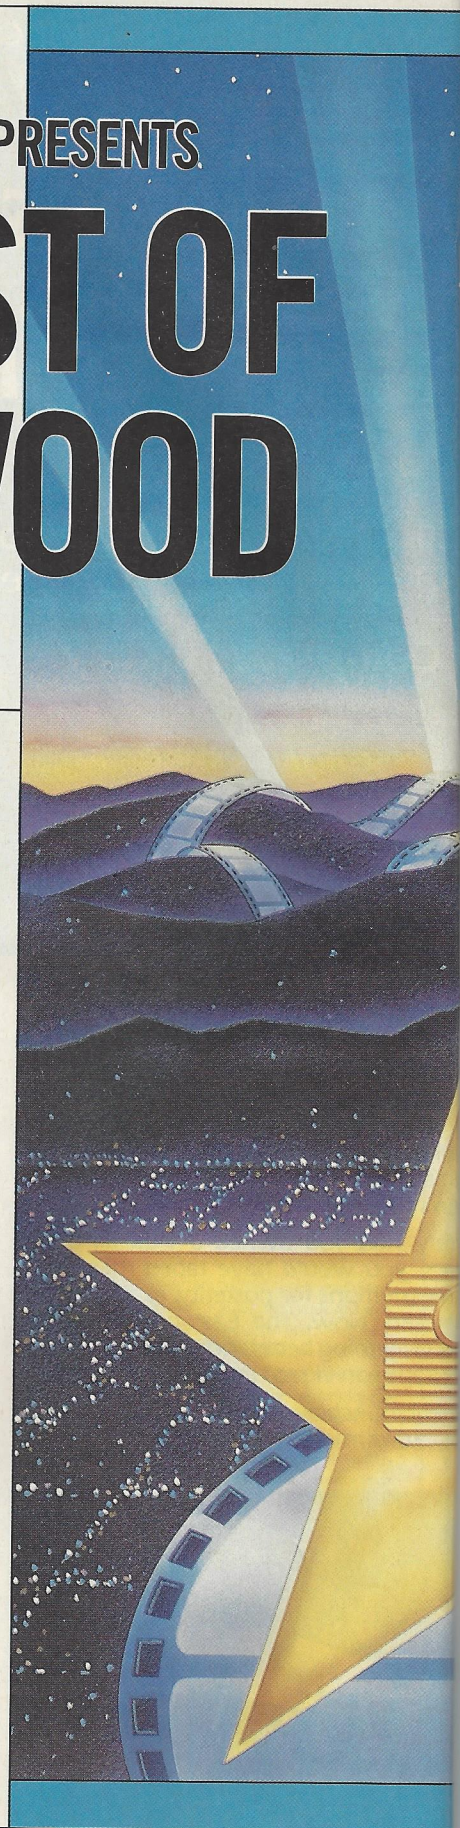

Fred Astaire

On Monday
evenings at 9:00 p.m., The Disney Channel
presents
Hollywood's greatest movies
—from musicals to drama and comedy.

In 1914, a young director named Cecil B. De Mille stumbled upon the perfect location for a fledgling movie studio: a sleepy Southern California hamlet called Hollywood. Since the day De Mille first set up shop in a former stable, the name Hollywood has been synonymous with motion pictures. Now, as part of Disney Night Time, post 9:00 p.m. (EST/PST) programming for older members of the family, The Disney Channel presents The Best of Hollywood. It's a series featuring great classics of the American cinema on Monday evenings at 9:00 p.m., beginning January 4.

What qualifies a movie to be considered a Hollywood classic? There are a number of characteristics. First and foremost are those films which have stirred our emotions, movies whose images on film have become part of our shared memory and experience. Then there are the legendary screen stars who became public icons. There are technical factors too: great directors who pioneered a new medium; and brilliant cinematography that not only revolutionized movies but changed our perceptions of the world and of ourselves.

Subscribers will find all of these ingredients in The Best of Hollywood. The roster of featured directors includes George Cukor, John Ford, John Huston, Vincente Minnelli, and the man whose first studio

Gene Kelly

Ginger Rogers

Buster Keaton

Judy Garland

Spencer Tracy

was a barn, Cecil B. De Mille. The list of actors and actresses is a veritable Who's Who of Hollywood: Henry Fonda, John Wayne, Gene Kelly, Fred Astaire, Bette Davis, Audrey Hepburn, Katharine Hepburn, and Judy Garland.

The Best of Hollywood opens with a 10-week salute to that quintessential American film form: the Hollywood musical. This festival begins with The Disney Channel premiere of the 1945 version of State Fair. Starring Jeanne Crain and Dana Andrews, this slice of Americana features the music of Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein.

Among the other musical classics are such works as An American in Paris, the George and Ira Gershwin-inspired musical starring Gene Kelly. Who will ever forget the film's haunting ballet sequence, a stunning combination of choreography and cinematography that remains unequalled today? Other superb musicals are: Top Hat, starring the cool and inimitable Fred Astaire, Fiddler on the Roof, My Fair Lady (winner of eight Oscars), and Kismet.

In another mini festival, this devoted to the films of Henry Fonda, subscribers will have the opportunity to see four bonafide American masterworks: films directed by the legendary John Ford. These include The Grapes of Wrath, Young Mr. Lincoln, and Drums Along the Mohawk. The fourth film, My Darling Clementine, is often listed by many film critics as Ford's finest picture. In the hauntingly romantic Western, Fonda plays the legendary lawman Wyatt Earp.

But what would The Best of Hollywood be without the epics? The Disney Channel's selection ranges from the late John Huston's adaptation of The Bible to Cecil B. De Mille's Samson and Delilah (with Hedy Lamarr as the scissors-wielding Philistine). There's even an American historical epic: How the West was Won, which stars John Wayne, Jimmy Stewart, Henry Fonda, Gregory Peck, Debbie Reynolds and Carroll Baker.

In short, beginning Monday, January 4, at 9:00 p.m., The Best of Hollywood provides subscribers of The Disney Channel with not only topnotch entertainment but also a star-studded panorama of American film history. Be it musical or comedy, great actors or legendary leading ladies, this film series offers Hollywood's enduring movies, movies that enchanted a nation and the world. 🐭

THE NEW AD WINNIE T

A brand-new
animated series,
Saturday and Sunday mornings at 8:30 a.m., beginning
January 17.

Edward Bear, known to his friends as Winnie the Pooh, and sometimes as just Pooh, is probably the most celebrated animal in children's literature. He did really belong to Christopher Robin (Milne), whose father A. A. Milne immortalized "the silly old bear" in the whimsical, witty tales he wrote to entertain his young son. That was in England in the 1920s.

Walt Disney acquired the Winnie the Pooh stories on June 14, 1961, and set about turning them into animation. The result was the movie The Many Adventures of Winnie the Pooh, premiering on The Disney Channel January 2 at 7:00 p.m. Walt treasured the Pooh books and insisted on a close adaptation of both Milne's writing and of Ernest H. Shepard's illustrations, which decorate the books. Indeed, practically all of the dialogue is lifted from the Pooh books, and Shepard's illustrations are closely adhered to, background scenes as well as the drawings of the beloved characters.

Now the Walt Disney Studio has produced a high-quality series for television, the first to feature a major character from a Disney classic. The New Adventures of Winnie the Pooh premieres on The Disney Channel January 17 at 8:30 a.m. (Welcome to Pooh Corner, seen regularly on The Disney Channel, also features the Pooh characters, but in an every-day setting unrelated to the original Pooh stories.) The Disney Channel Magazine recently visited Disney TV Animation, a beehive of activity worthy of the honey-loving bear himself. There, artists and writers have been working seven days a week to bring the new Pooh stories to The Disney Channel.

We asked questions of the series' producer Karl Geurs and the story editor Mark Zaslove, and they responded with just the sort of gleeful enthusiasm you'd expect of Pooh aficionados, frequently making their points with dialogue from the series, voiced in the high-spirited sing-song tones of the characters. Dressed in casual clothes, both wearing cowboy boots, they'd spontaneously lapse into acting out their favorite scenes, like the ones pictured below.

Serious for a moment, however, Karl Geurs spoke about his feelings for the Pooh heritage. "It's a strong tradition to uphold. Pooh was well written. It was real. And it has to be real now."

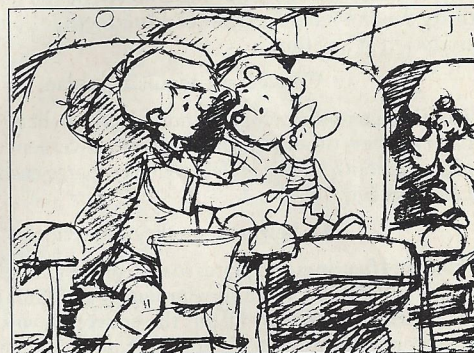

Geurs feels that the original Disney movie is a part of the Pooh tradition as well, and he has tried to stick to the integrity of that film in producing the new television series. Mark Zaslove elaborates: "The New Adventures of Winnie the Pooh keeps the spirit and heart of Milne and the beauty of the Disney films. What's new is

Sketches of the first episode, beginning with a scene in which Tigger sympathizes with Christopher Robin's having to eat carrots.

A frightened Piglet hangs on to Pooh in the lobby of the movie theater, where they've gone to take in a monster movie.

VENTURES OF THE POOH

that we're now addressing the medium of television. We want the action to come out of the screen. It has to be more active, more lively and fun. After all, the original books were quiet bedtime stories. But, on the other hand, we haven't taken a teddy bear and a bunny and put them in a spaceship and had them meet Martians."

No, Pooh and his animal friends Eeyore, Tigger, Kanga and Roo, Owl and Rabbit, and of course, Christopher Robin, the little boy who cares for them, still spend most of their time in the enchanted natural setting of the Hundred Acre Wood. The New Adventures of Winnie the Pooh occasionally take these lovable characters farther afield—like on a fantasy "expedition" to a frozen Hundred Acre Wood just to the north or to a jungle that lies to the south. "It's a steamy, fantastical jungle," Zaslove reassures, "not a South American or an Indiana Jones kind of jungle."

In the series' first episode "Pooh Oughta Be in Pictures" (see the animators' sketches below), Christopher Robin and his animal friends venture forth on a different sort of adventure—a monster movie, which terrifies Piglet. And they also find themselves cornered in Christopher Robin's house, in close proximity to "the Mommy." But most of the series' episodes find the endearing creatures busying themselves with the day-to-day happenings close to home in the Hundred Acre Wood, the magical and wondrous habitat that lies just beyond Christopher Robin's house.

The Hundred Acre Wood hasn't changed over the years either, according to Geurs. "Oh, the heffalump trap may be a little bigger," Geurs boasts, "and the interior of Piglet's house was enlarged for the series. But if you were to drop down into the Hundred Acre Wood with Shepard's map [from the inside cover of the original edition of Winnie-the-Pooh], you could still find your way around pretty well."

That news should be reassuring to all those who loved the books when they were children, and then read them to their own children—millions of readers, who span three generations. In an interview on the occasion of Pooh's 50th birthday, in 1976, Christopher Milne offered this explanation for Pooh's enormous success: "The attraction is that they are well written. They were written to be read aloud, thus forming a bond between parent and child, which the child remembers and repeats to his children."

Karl Geurs and Mark Zaslove see The Disney Channel series in the same way: entertainment that parents will enjoy sharing with their children. In creating the new stories, Zaslove, who was once a scientist, says he looked for a hypothesis that would work for all of the stories. He says he decided on a single axis: the world as seen through the eyes of a child. "Pooh has a child's illogic (by adult standards) and whimsy," he says, "and that's what makes it a family show. Young children find a friend in Pooh, older children recognize his illogic and think it's funny, and adults chuckle, recalling their own innocent understanding of the world."♥

Piglet's scared once again, this time by an enormous carrot. But guess who's inside?

Hiding in a log from the terrifying carrot.

KALEIDOSCOPE CONCERTS

Linda Arnold is the first performer featured in this series of musical specials that young children and their parents can enjoy together.

"My secret fantasy is to be Mary Poppins," says Linda Arnold, star of The Disney Channel's first Kaleidoscope Concert. "I have that part of me that loves imagination and fanciful things."

A composer as well as a singer, Linda is dedicated to children's music. "I like to write songs because I like to create a space full of wonder for children. I love to hear them laugh and to see their eyes grow big."

And that's exactly what happens when Linda sings with small children. Eventually even the most down-to-earth youngsters are drawn into Linda's fairy-tale world, where grandfather clocks stand on their heads, and magic horses transport you beyond the stars.

Linda admits that what she does is almost as visual as it is musical. Against a background of prismatic colors and shapes, and dressed in a shiny pink and blue suit, she is accompanied by brightly colored animal friends, a purple cow, her white magic horse with emerald eyes, and others.

Linda's talented 10-year-old daughter, Katy, joins her mother in the concert. And now Linda's son Toby, age four, is expressing an interest in music.

Linda is not only mother to her children, they are her inspiration, and she theirs. "I love to write songs with children," she en-thus. "They have such good ideas."

One of her most lovely songs is the result of such a collaboration. When Katy was five, she asked to write a song. "What should it be about?" her mother asked. "A short giraffe on a crooked path," answered Katy. And so the song begins. Its refrain and title—"Do You Know What Magic Is?"—is a question Linda answers with every song she sings.

The Disney Channel's next Kaleidoscope Concert features Red Grammer, who is as quick-witted and agile as Linda Arnold is dreamy and fanciful. His songs are humorous and his dancing is as nimble as Jack jumping over the candlestick. These two engaging entertainers, with very different styles, will be followed in the months ahead by other talented performers: they're the stars of Kaleidoscope Concerts.

Music brings children and their parents together. The language of song and imagination is one that's universal and indifferent to age. That's the magic these special stars believe in. 🐾

Linda Arnold's audiotope "Make Believe" can be bought in stores or ordered directly from Ariel Records, P.O. Box 2999, Santa Cruz, CA 95062. Phone: (408) 423-4852 ($10.95 includes shipping and handling).

Megan Follows

The young actress, Megan Follows, who played Anne Shirley in Anne of Avonlea, has been nominated for an ACE Award as Best Actress in a Miniseries. (ACE Awards are given by the National Academy of Cable Programming). In fact, the miniseries collected six different ACE nominations. Follows's co-stars Colleen Dewhurst and Dame Wendy Hiller both received nominations for Best Supporting Actress. Other categories include Direction of Photography and Music. The Awards Ceremony will be televised, January 24.

Sandy Duncan, who co-stars with Ken Berry in Disney's sci-fi spoof The Cat from Outer Space (turn to page 40), can also be seen on NBC's series Valerie's Family. (She recently replaced Valerie Harper on that show.) But Duncan is perhaps best known as the "Mary Martin of her generation": an accolade bestowed on Duncan for her stage version of J.M. Barrie's immortal Peter Pan. That show was the toast of Broadway a few years back. On the state of Broadway's health today, Duncan has some forthright opinions. "Broadway is not in a healthy creative state," she observes. "Everything is either a revival or an English spectacular event. It's not the musical theater we grew up knowing."

One of the many delights of True Grit (see page 34), the film which brought John Wayne his long-deserved Oscar, is the juicy performance by Robert Duvall as a quintessential Western desperado. Duvall, long considered one of America's finest actors, later went on in his career to capture an Oscar of his own for Tender Mercies, in which he played a country and western singer. What effect did winning that coveted award have on his Hollywood status?

"It was nice to win an Oscar," Duvall says. "What it really means is that your peers think you did a good job, and that was wonderful. But I don't think it did anything for my career—other than get me better treatment in airports."

In Misunderstood (turn to page 34), Gene Hackman portrays a recent widower struggling to cope with life—and his two young sons. When not in front of the cameras, Hackman can frequently be found behind the wheel of a high-performance car. Like Paul Newman, Hackman is a racing enthusiast who has competed in professional events. He attributes his hobby to his early days.

"I grew up in Illinois, just 70 miles from Indianapolis (home of the annual Indianapolis 500 race). In those days back in the '50s, there were always a lot of sprint car races and dirt car races. There were races happening two, sometimes three times a week."

Fans of The Saga of Anne of Green Gables (see page 35) will also enjoy an earlier effort of director Kevin Sullivan's. Sullivan directed the sensitive family film The Wild Pony (see page 36), a moving tale about a boy's adjustment to family life—and a new stepfather—in the Wild West.

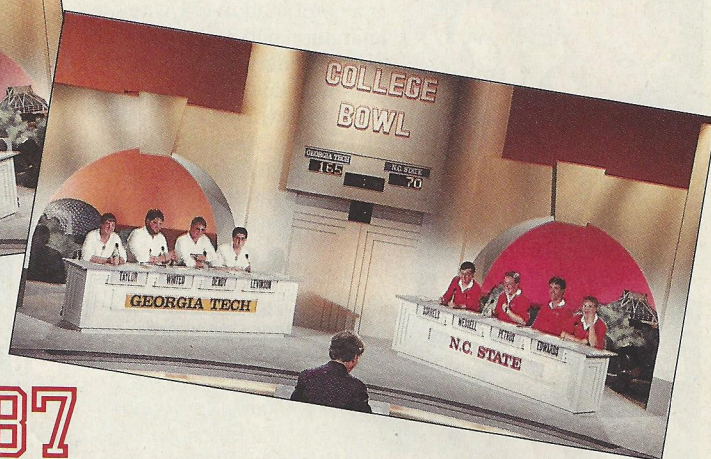

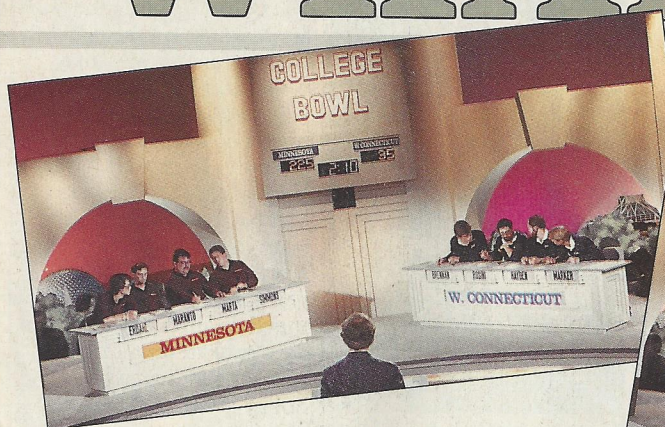

Kevin Sullivan

If the face looks familiar, that's Fred Gwynne in The Man Who Corrupted Hadleyburg (page 36). Gwynne (recently seen on The Channel in The Boy Who Could Fly) first came to national attention in two situation comedies: Car 54 Where Are You? and, of course, The Munsters. After the demise of The Munsters, Gwynne's career went into something of a professional limbo. "I painted some, illustrated children's books," he says of those now thankfully distant days. "Then someone found out that I could still speak English, and I went back to the stage." Gwynne's stage successes paved the way for later movie appearances in such films as The Cotton Club.

Show Off

In Show Off (see page 38), Malcolm-Jamal Warner of The Cosby Show demonstrates gags, tricks, and stunts children will enjoy.

Celebrating The New Year, kids won't want to miss the hour-long special Kids Incorporated: Rock in the New Year (page 35). The stars of that hot group sing their songs and discuss their hopes and dreams. And fans of the group will be pleased to know that new adventures of Kids Incorporated premiere on The Disney Channel every Friday at 5:00 p.m.

TALES TOLD IN ANIMATION

From Disney classics to fine movies from around the world, there's always a broad selection of animated films found on The Disney Channel. Music is frequently an important ingredient in animated films: The Many Adventures of Winnie the Pooh is enriched with songs from the Sherman Brothers (Mary Poppins); and The Point features seven wonderful songs from Harry Nilsson. Pictured from left to right are the following animated films:

- The Many Adventures of Winnie the Pooh (page 34)
- The Point (page 35)
- Dot and the Whale (page 38)
- Asterix and Caesar's Surprise (page 43)

KALEIDOSCOPE CONCERTS

These original Disney Channel musical events are designed to appeal to young children. Youngsters will delight in the mixture of music and songs that gifted children's performers bring to each concert—and parents will love to share these magical moments with their young ones. Our first Kaleidoscope Concert features Linda Arnold in a show that emphasizes fairy-tales and the fantastic (see page 37).

OTHER CHILDREN'S SPECIALS:

DISNEY NIGHT TIME

Disney Night Time is entertainment that has been selected for the enjoyment of the older members of your family. It's an array that includes fine full-length feature films, series and specials. Disney Night Time begins at 9:00 p.m. (Eastern/Pacific time) every night of the week.

GREAT MOVIES

As part of Disney Night Time, The Disney Channel presents films that adults will enjoy, specially selected films like True Grit, for which John Wayne won an Oscar for his performance as the gruff, one-eyed marshal, Rooster Cogburn.

- True Grit (page 34)
- Grambling's White Tiger (page 34)
- Dragonslayer (page 37)
- Betrayed (page 40)

True Grit

Grambling's White Tiger

Garrison Keillor

SPECIALS AND SERIES

Disney Night Time also includes unique stars, such as Garrison Keillor in his 90-minute special Lake Wobegon Comes to Disney. Beginning in February, A Prairie Home Companion encores as a weekly series Sundays at 10:00 p.m. (EST/PST), part of Sunday Night Showcase, a selection of entertaining series and specials.

THE BEST OF HOLLYWOOD: MONDAYS AT 9:00 P.M.

A special feature of Disney Night Time is The Best of Hollywood, which offers a selection of great American movies—from musicals to comedy to drama—on Monday evenings starting January 4. It all begins with a salute to that great film genre, the Hollywood musical. Following our festival of classic musicals will be other festivals and specially selected landmark films that have entertained audiences for decades.

A FESTIVAL OF MUSICALS

- State Fair (page 37)
- Yankee Doodle Dandy (page 38)
- Summer Stock (page 41)
- In the Good Old Summertime (page 42)

FUTURE FILM SALUTES:

In the months ahead, The Best of Hollywood presents a continuing series of films selected to honor individual actors such as John Wayne, Spencer Tracy, and Henry Fonda; a series featuring Legendary Leading Ladies; as well as movies devoted to film genres, such as epics, ranging from a Cecil B. De Mille extravaganza to How the West Was Won.

THE MAGNIFICENT DOPE

Henry Fonda is a hick from the sticks and Don Ameche is a smooth city-slicker who thinks Fonda is slow-witted, only to discover he's been outmaneuvered in the big city by a country boy. (1:23) Dec. 20, 23, 27

COLLEGE BOWL '87

The tournament to determine the National Champion in this "varsity sport of the mind" reaches its thrilling conclusion: on Sunday, December 20 at 5:30 p.m. (Eastern/Pacific time), the two surviving teams meet in the final game. The winner receives a silver trophy and the winning college or university is awarded a $10,000 scholarship.

SMOKE

A young Ron Howard stars in this Disney drama. A boy has trouble adjusting to his stepfather, until they discover a lost dog they nurse back to health, which draws them together. When the owner appears to claim the animal, the boy and his dog run away. (1:29)

The Best of Hollywood

YANKEE DOODLE DANDY

For this, his greatest screen role, James Cagney received an Academy Award. He portrays Broadway's legendary song-and-dance man George M. Cohan in this stirring musical directed by Michael Curtiz (Casablanca). (2:06) Jan. 11

SHOW OFF

Malcolm-Jamal Warner (The Cosby Show) hosts this half-hour show that will make youngsters the hit of the playground. With some help from his talented friends, Warner will show kids how to talk like a duck, sound like an elephant, moonwalk, stage stunt fights just like in the movies, and many more tricks. Jan. 15, 17, 23, 27

BUTCH MINDS THE BABY

Based on a Damon Runyon story, this special tells the tale of how Runyon became involved with four bank robbers—one of whom is packing his baby along. Dec. 27; Jan. 9, 13, 17, 22, 27, 30

THE BEAUTIFUL BLONDE FROM BASHFUL BEND

This madcap farce, directed by Preston Sturges, stars Betty Grable as a routin', tootin', straight shootin' gal who sets her sights on Cesar Romero. (1:17) Jan. 2, 10, 26, 30

FROM HELL TO TEXAS

After accidentally slaying a man, a young cowboy (Don Murray) finds himself pursued by a posse led by the victim's father (Chill Wills), who will stop at nothing to exact his revenge in this Western. (1:40) Jan. 11, 16, 21, 27

DOT AND THE WHALE

In this charming film from Yoram Gross, which mixes live action with animation, Dot, a little girl, and her friend Neptune the dolphin try to save a stranded whale. (1:10) Jan. 11, 16, 28

LAKE WOBEGON COMES TO DISNEY

Garrison Keillor, who created the popular A Prairie Companion, hosts this special edition of the program, interweaving music with his home-spun tales of Lake Wobegon. (1:30) Jan. 10, 14, 18, 24, 27, 30

16 DAYS OF GLORY

Beginning Tuesday, January 12, The Disney Channel presents a special encore of 16 Days of Glory. This moving work probes beneath the 1984 Summer Olympics to examine the human face of athletic competition. Five hours in length, 16 Days of Glory will now be shown in five one-hour installments on Tuesday evenings at 8:00 p.m. (EPT) and again on Saturdays at 9:00 p.m.

THE PRINCE AND THE PAUPER

Sean Scully undertakes dual roles as Prince Edward Tudor and his look-alike, a London street urchin, in this exclusive Disney Channel premiere. When the prince meets the pauper, he decides on a novel move: to change places with his "twin" and examine life on the London streets, a move that triggers wild adventures as the boys cope with their new circumstances. Guy Williams (Zorro) co-stars. Jan. 16, 18, 24, 29

RASCALS AND ROBBERS: THE SECRET ADVENTURES OF TOM SAWYER AND HUCKLEBERRY FINN

Patrick Creadon and Anthony Michael Hall (The Breakfast Club) are Tom Sawyer and Huckleberry Finn. When the pair overhear plans of an impending theft, they soon find themselves prisoners of the gang's leader. Escaping, but with the crooks in pursuit, the mischievous boys manage to join up with a ragtag circus. Ed Begley Jr. and Anthony Zerbe co-star. (1:40) Jan. 15, 19, 23, 28

THE NEW ADVENTURES OF WINNIE THE POOH

This new animated series features the characters from A.A. Milne's classic stories. Join Winnie the Pooh, Christopher Robin, Eeyore, Piglet, and Tigger, too, every Saturday and Sunday morning at 8:30 a.m.

The Best of Hollywood

SUMMER STOCK

Judy Garland sings "Get Happy" and Gene Kelly dances up a storm in this sprightly musical. Kelly is the leader of a theater troupe that's found a perfect headquarters: the farm where Garland lives. In the blink of the eye, Garland is smitten with show business. (1:50) Jan. 18, 24, 29

A BOY CALLED NUTHIN'

Ron Howard is a city kid who moves to his uncle's ranch—and discovers there are no cowboys and Indians about. But Uncle "Turkey-neck" Tugwell (Forrest Tucker) has his own doubts about his nephew. (1:26) Jan. 22, 27

RUN, COUGAR, RUN

Seeta, a three-year-old mountain lion, must use all of her natural cunning to survive the threat posed by a professional hunter (Stuart Whitman) who tracks her by helicopter in this Disney nature film. (1:27) Jan. 30

PIRATES OF TORTUGA

Angered by Henry Morgan's ruthless buccaneering on the Spanish Main, the British admiralty decides to put an end to Morgan's career with a secret agent who poses as a pirate aboard Morgan's flagship. (1:37) Jan. 13, 23

EYES OF THE AMARYLLIS

For 30 years a widow has awaited some sign from her drowned husband. When her granddaughter joins the quest, the 11-year-old girl finds herself swept up into an eerie game between the widow, a ghost, and the sea. (1:34) Jan. 26

TOM SAWYER, DETECTIVE

A very young Donald O'Connor stars in this film which features Mark Twain's two great fictional characters, Tom Sawyer, the terror of the Mississippi, and his cohort in mischief, the irresponsible and irresistible Huck Finn. The two get involved in a rural murder mystery that involves twin brothers—a crime the two boys solve. (1:08) Jan. 17, 20, 26, 30

THE RACCOONS

Experience a new adventure in the Evergreen Forest as those lovable raccoons match wits with Cyril Sneer, that underhanded aardvark, every Saturday and Sunday morning at 9:30 a.m.

The Best of Hollywood IN THE GOOD OLD SUMMERTIME

Two young people (Judy Garland and Van Johnson) can't stand the sight of one another—not knowing that they are secret pen pals. Featured songs in this musical include "Put Your Arms Around Me, Honey" and "In the Good Old Summertime." Buster Keaton co-stars. (1:42) Jan. 25

DANGER BAY

From exploring the waters of the Pacific Northwest to aiding wildlife, "Doc" Roberts and his kids Jonah and Nicole encounter a new adventure, Wednesdays at 8:30 p.m. cc

THE COP AND THE ANTHEM

Robert Morse stars in this adaptation of an O. Henry tale: An affable hobo decides to break the law—allowing him to winter comfortably in jail. Jan. 2, 6, 10, 16, 29

JACK-A-BOY

When Jack-a-Boy and his family move into an apartment house in New Orleans, the other tenants are upset: they fear an unruly boy. But as they come to know Jack-a-Boy—and experience his charm, and grace—they discover that his inner qualities prove rejuvenating in this special based on a Willa Cather tale.

Jan. 3, 8, 15, 23, 27

WILDERNESS BOUND

Be it the fascinating woodland "World of the Beaver," hosted by Henry Fonda, or "Monsters of the Deep," this one-hour series from Survival Anglia features top wildlife cameramen exploring the wonders of nature, Mondays at 8:00 p.m. (EST/PST).

ASTERIX AND CAESAR'S SURPRISE

That mighty (short) warrior of Gaul, Asterix, is living in the last village to resist Caesar's Roman invasion. But then Asterix is smitten by love, and falls for a young village girl. Could this astonishing development mean the end of Asterix's spirited resistance? (1:19) Jan. 27, 30

TOBY McTEAGUE

Parents and Adolescents: A Struggle for Both

The Disney Channel Discovery film Toby McTeague tells of a 15-year-old boy—Toby—caught in the throes of adolescence. Some days he is strong and independent, others he is immature and irresponsible. The hardships and loneliness of his struggle are as dramatic as the rugged and beautiful terrain of northern Quebec where he lives with his 8-year-old brother and his father. The family's life is built around raising huskies and racing them. Toby shoulders an added burden: the loss of his mother to cancer several years before. His father, distracted by financial worries and the pressures of raising two sons alone, takes little time to try to understand what Toby is going through.

It's a poignant family film (and the dog-sled competition is exciting), but at the heart of it lies the familiar story repeated in every family with teenage children: the difficult journey through the rough terrain of adolescence. Dr. Daniel Minton, a psychiatrist in Los Angeles who works with adolescents in a juvenile hall setting as well as in private practice, is reassuring about the process, however. "In most cases parents and teenagers struggle through the years together and the results are quite good," he says.

"Independence versus dependence is built into the transition period, and it's the tension between the two that makes adolescence. Adolescents try on different ways of behaving. That's good. They have to do this in order to separate from their parents and to test their parents' values.

But for parents it's like following their teenager through a coat store, watching him or her try on one coat after another, and wishing he'd just buy a coat and be done with it."

How should parents react to adolescent swings in behavior? Parents need to be empathetic, of course, to explore with their teenager what they're trying out and searching for. But Minton adds, "Adolescents don't talk much, so you have to listen to their behavior."

From his experience, Minton concludes that parents struggle mainly with their own separation. He explains, "Parents want their children to be their little children. And they also want their children to be on their own. Parents have to lovingly let them go."

Beautiful Books Just Off the Press

A visit to Children's Book and Music Center, in Santa Monica, California, one of the large specialty bookstores which now dot the country, is always a treat. It brims with books, records, reading-related toys, and as many young children as the old woman had in a shoe. In the midst of the fun is Emily Andrews, a sprightly woman who has been in the business of children's books for many years. As a last-minute holiday gift, Andrews offers the following suggestions of new titles, and adds comments about each:

Picture books:

- Annabel Lee
by Edgar Allan Poe
illustrated by Gilles Tibo
- Crows
an old rhyme
pictures by Heidi Holder
"These two books are so beautiful they're for adults as well as young children."
- The Midnight Farm
by Reeve Lindbergh
paintings by Susan Jeffers
"A charming good-night book, all about a farm at night." (Won the 1987 Redbook Children's Picturebook Award)

For young children:

- We the People
The Constitution of the United States of America
by Peter Spier
"It has entertaining illustrations, but also a tremendous amount of information."
- In Coal Country
by Judith Hendershot
illustrated by Thomas B. Allen
"It's the story of the life of a miner's family as seen through the eyes of a young girl. It offers a little history without hitting youngsters over the head."

Children 8-12:

- Fell
by M.E. Kerr
"A good mystery with a twist at the end you'd never guess."
- A Blossom Promise
by Betsy Byars
"This is the fourth in her quartet about the very funny Blossom family, but you need not have read the others."
